S: What did you feel when you got the gold medal?

M: It was unbelievable! I can still remember that I was really excited because it was out of my expectation. Before the competition, I thought that it's nice if I can get a silver or bronze.

F: I set two targets before the competition, which are getting the gold medal and breaking the record. I felt so glad that I achieved both targets.

I: I lost in the 800m on the 1st day, so I felt so happy that I won the 400m on the 2nd day.

S: Do you still remember your feeling just before the race?

M: The athletes from other schools are really strong, I felt extremely nervous just before the race.

F: As many people expected me to get good result, I really felt the pressure. This made me a bit nervous.

I: I felt nervous, too, I just hoped that I could win the race.

S: So what's your next target?

M: I want to further improve myself by joining running courses organized by Hong Kong Amateur Athletic Association.

F: I will strive for excellence to break record next time.

I: I also want to break the record in the next athletic meet.

S: Why do you like running?

M: Because running gives me self-confidence and a sense of satisfaction.

F: Because I don't need to use my brain! What I need to do is run towards the finishing line.

S: What are the difficulties that you faced during the training and the competition?

F: During the training, I hurt my leg. Fortunately I didn't feel pain during the competition.

S: Any words to PE Mr. and Miss Chan?

M: Without them, I think I have no chance to get any medal because they gave us good training and full support.

F: Thank you Miss Chan and Mr. Chan. They gave us a lot of advice and are really patient in training us.

I: They helped me a lot to prepare for the competition, so I want to express my thanks to them.

S: Any words to S5 and S7 students?

M: Wish you all success in the coming examination.

F: Work hard. Never give up. If you are depressed, just share with your friends.

I: Study hard and prepare well for the examination.

The 18th Catholic Diocesan Schools Committee Athletic Meet (CDSC) was successfully held at Siu Sai Wan Sports Ground on 30-31 January 2008.

Although the weather was not good during those two days, more than 80 Shun Lee students tried hard and challenged strong athletes from other schools in different events.

Finally, Shun Lee was the 8th in boys section and 7th in girls section, out of a total of 27 schools.

Interview with Lau Kwun Kin

S - SHUNique
L - Lau Kwun Kin

S: Congratulations on getting the bronze medal in 100m race.

L: Thanks, I was really surprised to get such good result. You know, the boys from other schools are really fast.

I didn't qualify for the final 2 years ago. so I didn't expect to get any medals in the competition this time.

S: What are the key factors to your improvement in these 2 years?

L: Although I had no regular athletic training, the training with the football and handball team did help me a lot, so I have to express my thanks to Mr. Chan and Miss Chan.

S: What's your next target?

L: I want to push my 100m record to within 11.5 seconds.

Mr. Chan: Those who win are those who strive for excellence!

Do you want to know more about the CDSC Joint Athletic Meet? Mr. Chan is here going to tell you more.

S: What was the main purpose of joining the CDSC Joint Athletic Meet when we already had one of our own?

C: The Joint Athletic Meet is an important event for all diocesan schools. It is held every 2 years. It provides a good chance for us to communicate with other schools. And I always think sport is a good language through which we can exchange ideas.

S: What are your expectations of the athletes in the Joint Athletic Meet?

C: Comparatively speaking, fewer students from our school joined the Meet and our training is less intensive than that of other schools, especially those single-sex schools. But this wouldn't put us at a disadvantage. Shun Lee also has some very good athletes who broke our school records not too long ago.

S: Then what about the cheering team?

C: The Students Union and the four Houses have trained them well. With experience gained from the last sports day, I believe, they can be impressive.

S: We have heard that other schools are very strong competitors and we still need to improve. How could our athletes improve themselves?

C: There is not enough time for training in our school. We are always in a rush which hinders the preparation. In contrast, our competitors are much keener to win and their coaches train them a lot. We are going to have some really tough competitions for sure.

S: What do you think about the students of Shun Lee?

C: Shun Lee is a good school. The students here are nice and polite. But the only fly in the ointment is that sometimes they only try to get their jobs done, without considering if there is any possibility for further improvement. They should learn that those who win are those who strive for excellence.

Miss Chan and A grade 4x400m girls.

S6 students led the cheering team with great passion.

Kwan Chiu Kwan flew high to the sky.

"Shun Lee is the BEST" chanted by S1 cheering team.

Lam Siu Pan pushed the metal ball with full throttle.

Hong Kong Sports Association for the Physically Disabled (HKSAPD)

Ironically, the disabled have to 'walk' a lot more than the healthy ones in order to get themselves back to the mainstream of life. In the past what they gained was merely disdain and despair.

Back in 1944 when the British surgeon pioneer Dr. Ludwig Guttmann introduced sporting activities into treatment for the disabled, he successfully proved that sports can help those patients re-establish self-respect and self-discipline. Mind and body are made a unity once again.

This encouraging discovery lives today. In 1972, a group of warm-hearted people established the HKSAPD under the leadership of Prof. Harry Fang, G.B.M. and Mrs. Maureen Wagg, to plan and promote disabled sporting activities with the support from the government, private donations and corporate sponsors. It also takes talented disabled athletes to different local matches and the international stage.

Who would say that the disabled are not able to achieve more?

Honor on the Chair: Mrs. Wong Pui-yi, Agnes

'No sacrifice, no victory.' Many would find this line cool to say but few understand the real meaning of it. But Mrs. Wong Pui-yi, the famous local wheelchair athlete and the guest of honor of the CDSC Joint school Athletic Meet definitely delivers us a living example of the motto.

Despite the piercing wind, the ruthless rain, and the Cold Weather warnings, Mrs. Wong's speech heated Siu Sai Wan Sports Ground with the story about her rollercoaster-like career.

It was 1992 in the Barcelona's Paralympic Games she fetched her first gold ever. Her career rise continued in the following Atlanta's Paralympic Games in which she fetched a Silver and in 1998 she got another Gold in the World Championships hosted in Paris.

But good time never lasts. As the competitions got tougher over the years, her world's ranking started to slide. She even missed some big international matches. But she showed us that one couldn't win without loss. She then met her new coach, changed her style of playing and started to win again.

She has been fighting to get into the Beijing Paralympic Games this year. Though in 2007 she received disappointing news from the HKSAPD that her chance was slim, she kept on joining overseas tournament even on self-financed basis and got 1 Gold, 2 Silvers and 1 Bronze in 2007.

This is what "NO SACRIFICE, NO VICTORY" really means.

Athletic Meet

With the welcoming warmth of the sun providing a relatively calm atmosphere, the school flag was raised at Hammer Hill Sports Ground to mark the beginning of the sports day on the 12th and 14th Jan. 2008 amid pledges of loyalty to the spirit of sportsmanship and the wisdom to accept both victory and defeat with courage.

The heats were held on Saturday and ended by lunch time, giving all the participants their much deserved rest after the gruelling heats, matched with the heat of the now not-so-friendly sun.

The latent desire to win was let loose as students broke records; like Mau Chun Lok, from Courage House, with a discus throw of 28.51 metres. Leung Yue Hing (Wisdom House) in the triple jump at 11.14 metres, and Man Tsz Kit in the boys' 800m C- Boys won in 2'37.67min. It was very touching to see the single minded devotion of the athletes since even injury would not hinder some from racing.

The highlights of the second day were the 4X100 metre relays. Many students cheered themselves hoarse, spurring the sprinters on. In this too, records were broken by the (C-grade) girls and boys in Honesty House by completing the race in 1'02.66 min. and in 0'54.9min. respectively. Wisdom House boys A-grade completed the race in 0'53.09min.

In addition, the inter-house relays run by the teachers were very impressive as they showed off hidden potential and strengths, with Miss Chow's team showing great wisdom as they set the pace for her to lead it to victory since Mr. Kwok, a rival, honestly made everyone else look as if they were walking!

Loyalty House, this year, showed great team spirit when they came second after Wisdom House. It seems Courage was rather laid back as they were last year's champion and was unable to defend its title while Honesty, which unfortunately in the real world does not do too well, pulled in the rear.

Boys C-grade 4x100m relay.

Boys B-grade 100m hurdle.

"... I believe I can fly ..."

Wisdom won the championship of the Athletic Meet.

What were they doing? Kung-Fu?

The cheering team shouted loudly for their athletes.

"Are you ok?"
"AHhhhhhhh"

Miss Chow was running towards the finishing line.

Athletic Meet

6B To Ting

The 12th and 14th January saw the whole school go to Hammer Hill Road Sports Ground.

Sports day for me, is nothing more than a cheering team and a chance to do some exercise. For the athletes, the sports ground is their stage. On these days, I was deeply touched by their single-minded devotion to sports.

My older brother once told me that when anyone does anything whole-heartedly, he always becomes very attractive and successful. I proved him right after the sports day. The athletes were shining! They were all stars!

Though I am not that enthusiastic about athletics, I enjoyed watching the track and field events, especially the one that my classmate Fin participated in.

Just a week before sports day, she told me that her leg was injured. She was so worried that she might not be able to participate. I could understand why she was so disappointed. She had looked forward to it since the beginning of September. It would be heartbreaking if she couldn't participate.

Who knows? Maybe athletes really have stronger will power. Fin was the star in the Athletic Meet. She is this year's girls A-grade individual champion..

But I must add that all those who participated are winners in their own right. Congratulations!

TEAM NEWS

Girls' B Grade Volleyball Team has won the 2nd runner-up in the inter-school volleyball competition.

We Must Stand Tall

I must say thank you to a S.3 student who gave me the strength to face a challenge around a month ago. As I remember, from the day I was notified that I had to face a real challenge shortly, I struggled to overcome my inner fear. The thought of giving up arose from time to time. Then, on a Friday morning, three days before my 'Big Day' when my self-confidence had dropped to almost rock bottom, I had a miracle.

That Friday morning, the song at the morning assembly was "Footprints in the Sand"! "Isn't it a hint to me that I am not on my own?" All of a sudden, I got connected to HIM again. How could I forget that the Lord is always carrying me and helping me overcome every obstacle that lies in my way!

Right after the Morning Prayer was the book sharing session. The book shared by one of the students was "Never Fear, Never Quit!" which I found very inspiring. Just like a secret angel from the Lord, the message from the book strengthened me again. Back on my feet, I regained the power and courageously took up the challenge on the Monday that followed.

Isn't it a miracle? If things simply happen by the waving of a wand, what you see is just magic, or a kind of cover-up technique. Do you know that a miracle is not the sudden arrival of a desirable outcome, but turning of the seemingly impossible into something possible through the experience of one's own life? A miracle is not a gift that falls from the sky, but a realization through one's continuous effort and life reflection. The greatest miracle of all, I believe, is for one to have the strength to become the person that he or she desires to be.

My dear students, when you look back, miracles have already worked for every one of you in one way or another, in your personal growth and in your study. People often worry about something that has not yet happened, or even something that may never happen. Ironically, even when people already have a good time, they still will worry whether their luckiness will persist. At the very lowest and saddest time in your life, if you still have the belief that challenges in life are just to make your life more meaningful and that if you still have the courage to go on, then miracles can, and really will work for your life.

Miracles come from the Lord. HE, by pouring in blessings and power into our life, grants us the courage and strength to face the difficulties and challenges in life. Because of HIM, we all should have this in our mind: NEVER FEAR, NEVER QUIT!

Putunghua or Not to...!

Should Putunghua (PTH) be used to teach Chinese in Hong Kong?

Hong Kong as an international city has a tremendous language demand on its citizens. The students in Hong Kong are expected to master 3 languages, Cantonese, English and Mandarin.

Cantonese is native to Hong Kong, so most of the students don't have problems with it. Nor do they find too much difficulty in English that they were introduced to in kindergarten with plenty of practice. Many students can speak fairly fluent English. But, when it comes to PTH, the story is completely different. Most schools and students just treat PTH as a minor subject. The students have only 1 to 2 lessons every week. Since the value of PTH is recognized among parents and employers, there is an urge for more exposure of students to PTH. Because of this, the Education Bureau is planning to spend HK$200 million to help Hong Kong Schools use PTH as the medium of instruction for Chinese language schools.

But are students in Hong Kong able to learn Chinese through PTH? For the primary students who are only 6 to 12 years old, learning Chinese may already be a difficult task.

Using PTH as the medium of instruction may just be adding barriers for them. Imagine, the primary students who still do not have a solid foundation of Chinese language, and then they are required to learn Chinese language in a language that they seldom or never use, they would not be able to learn Chinese or PTH well.

Of course, to keep the competitive edge of Hong Kong, it is important to raise the citizens' language ability. But, in education the students' interest should be prioritized. So, the capability of students should also be considered.

Instead of using PTH as a medium of instruction, the Education Bureau should first encourage schools to create PTH atmosphere, let the students use and learn PTH naturally.

Miss Mok's Song.

With a smile and a wink, Miss Mok walked into class.
Pretty Miss Mok said these words while she smiled
And wished them with a will!

I wish- I- can.
I- know- they- can,
I- wish- the- students- would- work,
I- promise- they- can,
they- must- get- there-
I- simply- must- not- stop.

At last the students were clever
And how changed their personalities
They all smiled and Joined Miss Mok's joy
As she beautifully taught all day.

I knew I could do it, I knew they'd excel
OH! Teach, teacher teach!
And now for a happy run home
After a nice day in school!

The Woman and The Jakal anon.

There is a legend of a woman who had a faithful dog. This dog was so faithful that the woman could leave her baby with it and go out to attend other matters. She always returned to find the child soundly asleep with the dog faithfully watching over him.

One day something tragic happened. As usual, she left the baby in the care of this faithful dog and went out shopping. When she returned, she discovered a rather nasty scene.

There was a total mess. The baby cot was dismantled and his nappies and clothes torn to shreds with bloodstains all over the bedroom where she had left the child and the dog.

Shocked, the woman wailed as she began looking for the baby. Presently, she saw the faithful dog emerging from under the bed. It was covered with blood and licking its mouth as if it had just finished a delicious meal.

The woman went berserk and assumed that the dog had devoured her baby. Without much thought she clubbed the dog to death.

But as she continued searching for the remains of her child, she beheld another scene. Close to the bed was the baby who, although lying on bare floor, was safe. And under the bed the carcass of a jackal was torn to pieces in what must have been a fierce battle between it and the dog which was now dead.

Then the reality hit the woman. She now began to understand what took place in her absence. The dog fought to protect the baby from the ravenous jackal. It was too late for her now to make amends because in her impatience and anger, she had killed the faithful dog.

How often have we misjudged people and torn them to shreds with harsh words and even with physical assault before we have had time to evaluate the situation? A little patience can drastically reduce major life long errors.

Fly High!! Best wishes to all S5 and S7 students.

Handkerchief

I will use a handkerchief to Remove your tears.
Please
Try not to hold back your mysteries,
Looking forward to our delightful lives.

I will use a handkerchief to
Clean our bitter past.
Please
Try not to recollect it
Looking forward to our glaring future

I will use a handkerchief, to
Embroider my face.
Please
Try not to forget anything about me
Looking forward to a time when I'm no longer here

The Right Approach

When faced with failure, some people do nothing, while others try to improve.

If you fail, do not lose confidence. Try to analyse what happened and don't commit the same mistakes again.

Mine

My pencil is as great as the candle,
My calculator is as unfathomable as the sea,
My ruler as long as need be,
My mirror, like the lake in the moonlight,
My key as important as the sand.

My hair as black as my pencil,
My brain as simple as a slate,
My leg as long and thin as a metre rule!
My finger as uneven as my key.
My heart as sincere as my mirror.

FACE / OFF

Not long ago TVB showed the blockbuster "Justice, My Foot" ( ) again and that's already the 22nd time I have watched it. It's not because of the plot but Stephen Chow, who can always cast magic on any movie and make the fun within last forever. But what kind of person is he under that mask of 'King of Comedy'? After all, movies and reality are different.

The comments about Chow are always extreme. Some would really die for a chance to work with him, while some, who have worked with him for even a decade, could stand him no more and walked away.

Famous director Lee Lik-chee ( ) has worked closely with Chow since the 90s. But years of cooperation doesn't mean anything. "He always wants to be in charge of everything," Lee said. In some of their latest works Lee was more like an executive director.

Chow's relation with his best partner for all time Ng Man-tat ( ) has also turned sour. It has something to do with Chow's unpredictable personality. Ng had explicitly expressed his contempt for Chow after his role was cut in Kung Fu Hustle ( ).

However, Lam Zicong ( ), who starred in Shaolin Soccer ( ), sees Chow differently. "His mind changes so fast that sometimes we could not keep in pace with him. Everything he does is for a better movie. I have learnt so much from him!"

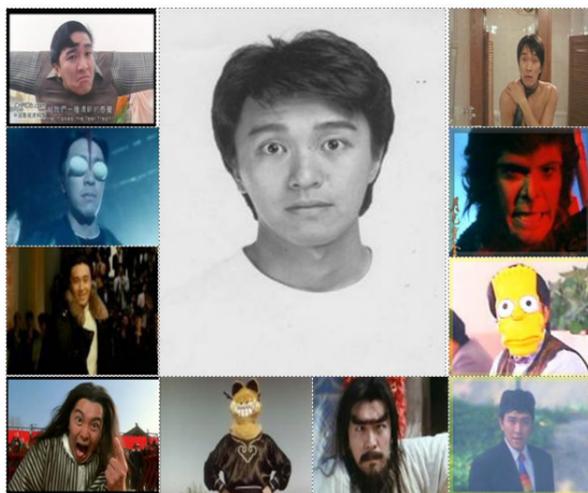

Everyone including Lee and Ng agree that Chow is a very serious actor and a definite genius. But he is seen as being too serious sometimes and that can be suffocating. His unpredictability also makes him hard to cope with. His obsession with pursuit of new ideas and breakthroughs could have turned him into this.

"I always feel like I am running out of inspiration. The hardest thing about movie-making is innovation. It's just painful if you cannot get any new ideas." Chow once said in an interview.

Chow is a true artist no matter what others say of him. And his movies are like water and bread to some maniacs, including me. However, his movies are changing and they start to taste sad. I wish to say I love his latest movies, like CJ7 ( ) all the same but as a matter of fact, I miss the old Chow Sing-Sing too much, like many others who are nurtured by his 'Mo Lei Tau' ( ).

His being too successful in establishing himself as the icon of comedy could be the only mistake he has ever made, which makes his fans mad and expect the same out of him in all of his works. This is an obsession. As the editor-in-chief I won't hesitate and use this column to shout "Chow Sing-chi, wo ai ni!". This is another obsession.

And it feels so good!

REVIEWS

双面 [Two-Sided Fahrenheit]

Entering their 2nd year in showbiz, the 4 boys, the embodiment of the 4 seasons, are trying to show us something new in their new album " ". In this 350,000 sales record hit, we see 4 young men who couldn't wait to grow up.

Ladies and gentlemen, let's welcome Fahrenheit!!

They have got mature for sure. Well, who wouldn't? You can smell some R&B in certain songs like " " and they actually sound good. But they should go for songs with great energy and vitality, which fit their image. Songs like " " are definitely mega hits with catchy and moving tunes. And " " is definitely their song!

So to be mature or to be young? It's like Shakespeare saying 'to be or not to be?' through Hamlet. Well, it's a nice try and it's fresh. But sorry boys, you are simply too young to be guys. Mature songs belong to singers like Kenny B.

Buy 1 CD and you get the 4 seasons. Where else could you find a better album than that?

Kite Runner

"For you, a thousand times over."

Though it didn't win the OSCAR® and the Golden Globe, "Kite Runner" is a definite thriller. Directed by famous director Marc Foster, whose previous movies like Monster's Ball received high recognition, this movie is set out to reveal the deep meanings of betrayal and redemption.

The story brings you back to the 70s Afghanistan which was politically unstable. Kite lovers Amir and Hassan used to be good friends until violence tore their destinies apart. After years of disconnection a call brought Amir back home bravely to serve his part to Hassan and ended up finding out his father's long kept secret.

"Kite Runner" is adapted from a famous novel with sales amounting to 8 millions copies around the world. The novel and the movie are great guides to Afghanistan history and cultures.

If you want to watch a really good movie of the year which makes you burst into tears, you've already got one. But remember to get your tissue ready.

CULTURE

"Otaku" ( )

This unique Japanese sub-culture originated in the 80s in the last century. Akio Nakamori, a social analyst, used this term in his column to describe those comic lovers who stay at home round the clock. This term had gained its popularity with the famous comic "Fortress Macross" ( ).

The popular TV series "Train Man" in 2004 has revealed how the majority look at Otaku. Usually these Anima Maniacs are described as geek and unproductive.

However, according to a research conducted by Nomura Research Institute, in the same year of the "Train man", Otaku actually holds a market value of 30 billion though they make up only 1.3% of the Japanese population.

See how much you and Otaku are alike:

1. Love reading comics and animations
2. Pay no attention to their appearances
3. Always stay at home and like being locked up
4. Have poor relationship with the opposite sex
5. Love online game, but may not be good at playing them

Sub-Culture? What's that?

Sub-cultures cannot survive without the mainstream culture and they interact closely with each other. Back in 1950, David Riesman, a sociologist and an attorney in the States suggested that some people would reject the way on how the majority "passively accepted commercially provided styles and meanings" and sought their own minority style actively, thus form a sub-culture. Members often use distinctive and symbolic means to signal their membership, like fashion.

Prefects on the Sports ground

We, the prefects, always want to let our schoolmates know more about our team. We usually perform our duty inside the campus. But sometimes we take outside jobs. On 30-31st January the team was sent to the CDSC Joint Athletic Meet to help maintain the discipline.

We were assigned different duties. Some stayed at the podium while others had to stay outside toilets in the venue. That was rather disappointing as those prefects missed the open ceremony and most of the events. Well, they were just outside the toilets so that was very 'convenient' for them.

We always think it is easy to perform our duties in Shun Lee as our schoolmates are always nice and obedient. For the CDSC Meet, it's the weather which made things difficult. We could even hear the chatter of our teeth and feel the numbing cold in our fingers. Luckily we were not lone wolves and the support from our partners really made the watch tick a bit faster.

For some of us, it's going to be our last year to participate in the function as a student. But the joys outweigh the sorrows as all our teammates are great. Though there isn't much excitement being a prefect, it brings us unforgettable experiences and the memory will always last. Farewell, my comrades.

Debating Team

I have heard that debating is actually arguing. But for sure it's more than that. It's arguing with evidence and you will be more knowledgeable about things after each match.

I have heard that there will always be a "motion" for every debate. And that's the topic. The motion must be controversial so it's debatable for both the proposition side, who supports the motion, and the opposition side, who opposes it. And it's always great to beat your enemy down.

I have heard that the motion could be about everything. It could be about education, science, politics and maybe Edison Chen. But most important of all it's about you and me and it's always funny to dig into the topics.

I have heard that the debaters will always listen. They listen to their opponents' stance and disclose their weaknesses and fallacy. It's always enjoyable to make the opponents regret raising their arguments, though debate is to explore the topics in the spirit of tolerance and cooperation.

It looks like a promotion of the debating team? No way. Am I a member of it? Of course I am! With these many benefits I would definitely want to join it. So why don't you join me and prove otherwise?

Moral and Civic Edu. Team

Moral and Civic Education Team aims at helping students build up righteousness and nurturing them to be responsible citizens.

Over the past few years we have held various activities such as Environmental Week, Healthy School Campaign and Secret Angel. They bear the mission to cultivate moral values and raise civic awareness among students.

On the other hand, Moral and Civic Education Team has invited different organizations and celebrities like Rebecca Lee Lok Sze and Alan Leong Kah Kit to give talks. We hope that students can develop interest in current affairs and ability to think critically. We also hold activities like quiz and flag-raising ceremony on National Day to help strengthen students' civic awareness.

We will continue our work and foster the three core values of the school: love, mutual respect and responsibility. We do believe this can help students develop a positive attitude towards life.

By the way, the Secret Angels are on their way, in a secret way. Beware!

SSG

The Social Service Group (SSG) aims at organising community services which can let you reach out to the society.

We hold service activities like visiting the elderly, the disabled and kindergarten children once a month. A group of project holders liaise with different organisations in our community.

What can you get from serving others? Tons of things. You learn how to co-operate with your teammates. You learn how to make decisions after series of negotiations and compromises. Most important of all, you get great satisfaction and joy throughout the services.

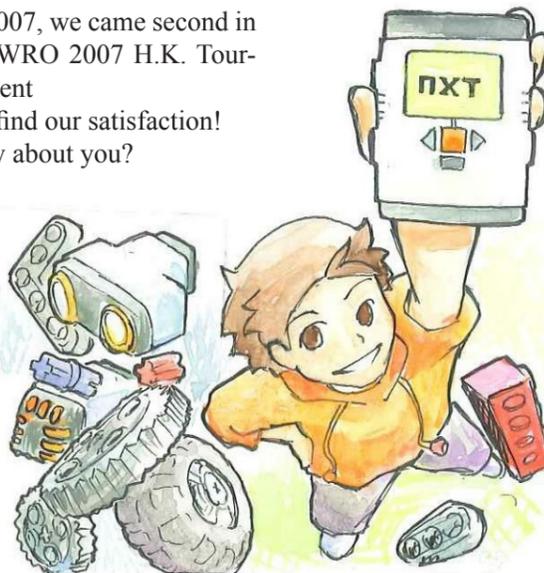

Your participation in our activities can show care for those in need. So my dear fellows, Stand up and fall in. We are waiting for you.

Robot Team

In 2006, we established the Robot Team

In 2007, we came second in the WRO 2007 H.K. Tournament

We find our satisfaction!
How about you?

Message Board

TO all S5 and 7 students,
we SHUNique wish you all the best.

TO all lucky March babies, we wish you Happy Birthday and everlasting joy.

TO all "lucky" schoolmates who are having your birthday and examinations at the same time, "Hahaa....Oh! Sorry for the wrong timing!"
What else can we say?
